LOCAL BRIEFS—
Sixteenth Sunday after Trinity.
Preaching at all the churches today.

The market is still profuse with the products of the field.

The curbstone politicians look gloomy and hungry.

Mosquitoes continue to press their bills nightly.

Ye genial darkey now finds consolation wrestling with ye supper-pots.

Get your smoked glass ready, old Sol is going to eclipse himself on the 20th.

The shop windows on Fayetteville street are being appropriately decked for the Fall trade.

Elder C. B. Hassel, of the Primitive Baptist church, will preach in Common's Hall to-day at 11 o'clock.

Peaches as fine and pretty as we ever saw, are plentiful in the market
at moderate prices.

Overcoats were in demand yesterday, caused by the sudden change in the weather.

From indications at the hour of writing, the weather will interfere with the exhibition of the new Convention banners to-day.

A mild winter is predicted, but you had better trust to a robust pile of coal or wood. Now is the time to lay in your supply.

Jones' Yackin county rye whiskey, said to be the best, is sold at the National Hotel bar and Gill's liquor store, Exchange Place.

The eulogies on Graham will be continued this week. They are necessarily crowded out to-day in consequence of the length of the Convention proceedings.

To-day is the 400th anniversary of the birth of Michael Angelo, the great patron Saint of the Roman Catholic church. The day will be appropriately celebrated by Catholics throughout the world.

"Jake Scott of Jones, who is by the way a good farmer, says, 'the man who can plow stumpy ground with a pair of lively mules without swearing, is prepared to go through purgatory with an overcoat on.'

When a woman with a voice like an auctioneer and a piano as musical as a cooer shop insists on keeping the neighborhood awake until late breakfast time, a subscription ought to be raised to secure her a position in the angel choir.

State Constitutional Convention.

SIXTH DAY.

RALEIGH, N. C. Sept. 11th, '75.
The Convention was called to order
at 10 o'clock by President Ransom.

Prayer by the Rev. C. B. Hassel, delegate from Martin.

Journal of yesterday read and approved.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.
Messrs. Clingman, from Committee on Legislative Department, Morehead from Committee on Education,
submitted reports.

RESOLUTIONS.
By Mr. Price, a resolution of instruction to the Committee on the Executive to report an ordinance abolishing the office of Lt. Governor.
Referred.

By Mr. Manning, of Chatham, a resolution to alter Art. 4, Sec. 26, of the Constitution. Referred.

By the same, resolutions to alter
Sec. 6, Art. 4, Sec. 13, Art. 3, Sec.
29, Art. 2, Sec. 14, Art. 4. Referred.

By the same, resolutions to abrogate and amend Sec. 19, Art. 4, Sec.
13, Art. 4, Sec. 15, 16, and 17, Art. 4 of the Constitution. Referred.

By Mr. Buxton, a resolution of instruction to the Committee on Privileges & Elections, to report the resolutions in reference to the Robeson county contested election case as early as practicable.

Mr. Turner amended the resolution by inserting the case of Judge Buxton, to be reported on at the same time, accepted by Mr. Buxton, and the resolution adopted under a suspension of the rules.

O'Hara, colored, a resolution to adjourn sine die; lies over under the rules.

By Mr. Durham a resolution proposing to amend Sec. 9, Art. 3, of the Constitution. Referred.

By the same, a resolution proposing to strike out Sec. 9, Art. 4, of the Constitution. Referred.

By Mr. Singletary, a resolution providing in all cases for an equal number of Magistrates to those elected by the people to be appointed by the General Assembly for each county, and all the Magistrates to elect a Board of county Commissioners. Referred.

By Mr. Hassel, a resolution to abrogate and amend Sec. 33, Art. 4, of the Constitution. Referred.

By the same, a resolution to abolish the township system and restore the old County Courts of Pleas and Quarter Sessions. Referred.

amend Art. 13, Sec. 2, of the Constitution, providing that no Convention of the people shall be had without submitting the question of Convention to the people. Referred.

By Mr. Wheeler, an ordinance to make the homestead a fee simple.
Mr. Withers objected to the reception of the ordinance, from the fact that it was a violation of the restrictions that he had sworn to support.

Mr. Tourgee said several ordinances and resolutions had already been introduced that were in violation of the restrictions, and he could not see why this should be made an exception.

Mr. Withers said he would have offered objections to any ordinance of this character had he known it. He withdrew his objection and the ordinance was referred.

By Mr. Marshall, an ordinance requiring the prepayment of poll tax as a qualification for voting. Referred.

By Mr. Henderson, an ordinance to amend Sec. 14, Art. 5 of the Constitution. Referred.

tion. Referred.

By Mr. Reid, a resolution providing for the working of highways by taxation. Referred.

By Mr. Wheeler a resolution of instruction to the committee on Privileges and Elections. Calendar.

By Mr. Kirby, on ordinance to amend Sec. Art. 6, of the Constitution. Referred.

CALENDAR.
The resolution instructing the Committee on Privileges and Elections to consider and report on the contest for seat as delegate from Surry county taken up.

The inquiry is whether Joseph Dobson is rightfully entitled to a seat upon this floor as a delegate from Surry county and whether J. M.
Brower is not rightfully entitled to be seated as a member of this Convention, that the contestant J. M. Brower be notified and a hearing be had upon the same within three days and report as soon as practicable.

Mr. Durham moved to amend by striking out the three days clause.

Mr. Manning of Chatham, moved to refer the matter to the committee on Privileges and Elections, but afterwards withdrew the motion.

Mr. Tourgee accepted the amendment of Mr. Durham, and proceeded at length to comment upon the action of the other side. In attempting to delay the hearing in this case, charging that there was evidently an object in keeping the matter asleep, and even the date of its slumber had been given by the public press, &c.

Messrs. Clingman, Manning of Chatham, Withers and Chamberlain, defended the committee against the intimation that they proposed to act unfairly on the cases before the committee.

The resolution as amended was referred to committee on Privileges and Elections.

Resolution requiring the printing of every ordinance, was on motion of Mr. Durham laid on the table.

Resolution of instruction to committee on Privileges and Elections to inquire into the eligibility of J. E.
O'Hara, delegate from Halifax, to a seat on the floor passed its readings.

THE DAILY NEWS,

The Official Organ of the City.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1875.

JOHN D. CAMERON, Editor.

JORDAN STONE, Associate Editor.

THE DAILY NEWS is the only paper in the City of Raleigh that takes the telegraphic reports.

OUR TERMS:

ADVERTISING RATES.—Per square (ten lines, nonpareil) first insertion $1.00; each subsequent insertion 50 cents. For the publication of 100 lines, or more, the price can be made at the counting-room of the News Office.

CONTRACTORS will positively not be allowed to exceed their space, or advertise other than the legitimate business, except by paying specially for the same.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.—Daily, one year, $5.00; six months $3.00. Weekly, one year, $1.00; six months, 75 cents. Invariably in advance.

Notice to Correspondents.

No letter can be published in these columns which is not authenticated by the name of its author. This we require, not for publication, but as a guarantee of the good faith of correspondents. Persons who violate this rule will have their communications consigned to the waste-basket.

THE WEEKLY NEWS is the cheapest paper published in North Carolina. It is only one dollar per year, postage paid, contains 52 columns of plain printed news from every section of the country, and important advertisements. Always Cash.

THE STATE FAIR.

Everything is promising for the realization of the expectations of the managers of the Fair, that it will be the most successful of all that have yet been held. Not only our own State, but Virginia, and the Northern States are putting forth their best exertions. Let nothing be left undone on the part of North Carolinians to put the best foot foremost. Our State is setting herself up for inspection. She is making an exhibition of her resources, her productions and her industries. She is making a grand advertisement of her worth. She wants immigration, she wants the wealth that will flow in with immigration, she wants development and she wants the men and the money that will hasten that development. Visitors from all parts of the Union will be there; men acute, watchful and critical, and who will make up their judgments from the epitome of the State presented at the Fair.

It is a work of patriotism and of self interest too, to determine that the Fair shall be a grand success; and every body in the State must combine to make it so.

GAMBLING AT THE FAIR.

The Legislature of last winter put an effectual and final stop to what has not only been a great nuisance to all visitors to Fair, but a subject of grave offense to moralists. The shameless display of gambling on the Fair Grounds, disguised under delusive names, was none the less ruinous to those who were drawn within the fatal influence, and none the less shocking to those who witnessed these evasions of human and divine law. It is not to be denied that many were deterred from attendance upon the State Fair by the knowledge that they would see what they were compelled to condemn, and many had resolved to abstain hereafter from attendance, because those exhibitions had come to be regarded as inseparable concomitants of the Fair.

But such things are at an end, and we are glad to be able to say that under no circumstances, and under no disguise, will any species of gambling be allowed at the approaching State Fair.

LEGISLATIVE COMPENSATION.

Among the ordinances introduced on Friday was one fixing the compensation of members of the Legislature. The ordinance strikes us as open to two objections. It is in the first place, legislative in character, and has no place in the fundamental law. It is a question that ought to be within the power of each successive Legislature to control, for, in the second place, it fixes a permanent unchangeable sum, based upon a standard which is essentially fluctuating and unstable. Money cannot be said to have any fixed value which is based upon national credit alone. That may be shaken by commercial revolution, by internal dissension, or by foreign wars. Money may be at par to-day; tomorrow it may not be worth fifty cents in the dollar. Too many instances of that can be recalled without citing examples.

It therefore seems unwise to fix by permanent enactment a defined limit to legislative compensation which now may be sufficiently liberal, but which might, and that very shortly, prove totally inadequate to the object. The experience of Greenbacks and Confederate notes gives sufficient warning not to lean too heavily on the stable value of paper money, which is the only money this generation is likely to see.

NEGRO MILITARY COMPANIES.

The Wilson Advance calls attention to the fact of the existence of an intense military spirit among the negroes and the formation of military companies in North and adjacent counties. The Advance says "they are enrolling the Union League members, and not only drilling at night, but holding secret meetings which extend far into the night."

What are the objects of these drillings we do not understand. Perhaps like the Georgia negroes, they "are preparing for the Presidential election." Perhaps they are deluded into the belief that they can only carry the election by such organizations.

We have little fear of trouble with the colored race in this State. There is the most amiable feeling between them and the whites, and that will not be disturbed except through bad external influences.

But they should learn that secret meetings and military drillings are suspicious. They are too much dependent upon daily bread to indulge in the luxury of military pomp, and they suffer no grievance which calls for military redress. If they will have military companies, to which there is no objection, let them have their drills and parades in the face of day, and not under such circumstances as draws the eye of suspicion upon them.

Distrust and hostility are the sure growth of secrecy.

THE CONVENTION.

This body has gone heartily to work. The appointment of the committees made the prompt introduction of ordinances admissible, and on Friday a very large number were submitted, embracing the most important subjects which have been considered the proper subjects of reform.

In time we shall probably have occasion to remark upon most of them. At present we shall refer only to the ordinance introduced by Mr. Shepherd, of Beaufort, on the subject of Civil Rights.

The decisions of the United States Courts have left the Government without power under the Bill passed by Congress last winter to enforce its provisions in its social, and therefore offensive features upon the States. But it was declared competent for any State to enact the law into its own system.

To meet this contingency, and forever define the social status of the races, and settle forever all obscurity of construction, Mr. Shepherd has introduced his ordinance. It will meet the approval of ninety-nine hundredths of the white people of the State, and of all the right thinking of the colored people, who will be glad to see a vexed question set at rest. The two civil rights of the colored people will be amply secured by the Convention. Only the aspirations of a few malcontents will be blasted.

The election of Dr. Ransom was a heavy blow to the Republicans, and knocked all their plans sky high. They show better temper here, however, than could be expected.

But the National Republican, the self-assumed organ of the party, and which takes the North Carolina branch of it specially under its wing, cannot hold in. It comes at Dr. Ransom as fiercely as it assailed President Wilson. The only difference is that Wilson was a member of the party, while the Republican only believed Dr. Ransom was, and hoped to cajole him into Republican ranks.

Hear the Republican:

"The North Carolina Democrats obtained control of the State Constitutional Convention, now in session in Raleigh, through the foolish vanity of Dr. Ransom, an Independent Republican from Tyrrell county. They selected him, knowing him to be a weak man, because they understood and intended to use the weak points of his character to induce him to become a traitor to the people to whom he owes his election as a delegate, and to become a tool in their hands to thwart the will of the majority of the voters of the State."

They consequently stand convicted of heaping undeserved honors upon a traitor, a traitor to his constituents, and a man whose ambition led him away beyond the bounds of common decency. When he announced the vote of Ransom for Edward Ransom, of Tyrrell, he placed upon his own forehead the brand of basest infamy and the mark of unblushing egotism and greed."

The Republican being the judge, Dr. Ransom may be considered as having received the highest compliment yet paid to his independence and his regard for the best interests of North Carolina.

The views of leading merchants of Baltimore, in constant communication with all parts of the South, indicate that the cotton and cereal crops are universally large, and it is believed that, on this account, the Southern trade for the present season will be healthier than for several years.—Baltimore Gazette.

Tennyson never smokes any but Virginia tobacco. The late John R. Thompson kept him supplied with the best the market afforded.

THE OUTRAGE BUSINESS.

Ames, the present Governor in Mississippi, is remembered in this part of North Carolina as the cowardly scamp who lured a conductor on the North Carolina Railroad, and had him pitched into a box car like a mail sack, because he obeyed the orders of the Superintendent of the road to run his train on schedule time, and not at lightning speed to gratify the impatience of a carload of reckless officers flushed with debauch. This was the only record Ames made in North Carolina. His name does not appear on the roll of military fame. He made no mark except that of the cowardly tyrant.

His career in Mississippi has sustained the promises he gave in North Carolina. He has played the oppressor, the conspirator, the assassin, and at last he appears in his most despicable character—that of the liar.

The outrage business, with Attorney General Williams to manage it, and creatures like Ames to furnish facts (2) for consideration, for awhile proved the most powerful engine for the repression of the South yet devised. Williams had a ready ear and a prompt hand to act upon the devilish fabrications of the outrage-mongers. But the common sense of the nation became disgusted, and the instincts of fairness and justice were offended, and this thing had to stop.

With the advent of such a man as Pierpont, learned in the law, clear in his apprehension, impartial in his judgment, unbiased by his political views, there was no chance for imposition. The thing died out utterly and the South had at length that justice done to its loyalty, its peacefulness, its regard to law, which had always been its due, but which had hitherto been denied to it.

But Ames had not forgotten how potent the weapon had been, and taking advantage of an unfortunate, but certainly a most casual and unpremeditated collision between the whites and the blacks in Clinton, a little town in Mississippi, he determined to turn it to account for the benefit of his party. The elections were only a few days off, and the promises were far from flattering to the Republicans. If it were only possible to alarm the government, procure the presence of troops, and put the State under martial law, then he could have his own way. None but the loyal could record their votes.

And during the last few days he has kept the wires hot with his dispatches; with his tales of wholesale slaughter of the negroes, of general lawlessness, of overthrow of civil authority, and of the utter helplessness of the State government.

But Pierpont was not thrown off his guard. He would not act on Ames' representations without corroborating evidence. And that evidence came along in due time so totally at variance with that of Ames, that it settled the question at once. There was no wholesale slaughter, no rebellion, no defiance of law. There had been bloodshed, provoked by force provocation. But the State officials had been able to suppress violence, and restore order, aided by the good citizens of the troubled counties.

As the Governor of Mississippi, he ought to be impeached for high crimes and misdemeanor. As an officer of the army, he ought to be cashiered for bringing a stain upon its honor, and as a man, he ought to be ignominiously punished for this vile conspiracy against the lives and fortunes of the people he was sworn to protect.

HON. EDWARD RANSOM.

The following complimentary notices, among others we have noticed in our exchanges of our worthy President of our Convention, we clip from the Norfolk Landmark and the Goldsboro Record:

"From the Norfolk Landmark. The North Carolina State Convention has been duly organized, and the manner in which this was done shows that the presiding officer, the Hon. Edward Ransom, is a man of pluck and vigor. He voted for himself. This was a novel, and as far as we are informed an unprecedented proceeding, but it reflects the highest credit on that gentleman. A weak man of the 'Miss Navy' pattern, full of the small propensities of life would have shrunk from this, and sinking would have fooled away much valuable time and public money. But Mr. Ransom seems to have understood the situation, and to have penetrated it with a logical mind, for it is plain that he drew the distinction between Ransom the private gentleman, and Ransom the representative. In the first attitude we have no doubt he would have retreated from any scene in which he would have been called on to cast a ballot for himself; but in the second he clearly understood his representative character and discharged his duty with boldness and originality which should win for him the applause and thanks of his constituents. With such a man in the chair we have no doubt that the Convention will be presided over with sense, dignity and fairness, and we congratulate our friends of the old North State on its organization."

(From the Goldsboro Record.) This gentleman—the delegate from Tyrrell—who was the Democratic candidate for President of the Convention, and now its presiding officer, has acted nobly. His Democracy is pure, genuine and conservative. No one doubts it. His position has been politely tendered him, and we feel sure that it could have been offered to no truer son of North Carolina, and it has been gracefully accepted by one representing a Democratic constituency, holding Democratic views and who has identified himself with the Democratic party. Dr. Ransom's conduct in this respect, however, and as that of our party. The party has passed a wise and judicious act, and will, we believe, never regret having conferred honor upon him who acted so nobly, and independently and conscientiously as Dr. Ransom has in this matter, and who, as a Conservative Democrat was elected by a Democratic constituency. Who in all respects, is with us and for us.

While this is true of the distinguished gentleman whose name stands at the head of this article, it is true that the party has surrendered nothing at all, nor lowered her standard at all. We loved the people approve and will applaud any Convention has done in the matter.

FLORIDA ORANGES.—In various parts of Florida, south latitude thirty degrees, especially along the St. John's and Indian rivers, there are immense groves of wild oranges. Bartram in 1765, near Mosquito Point, a ridge about half a mile wide and forty miles long which was once dense orange-grove, interspersed with magnolias and a few other trees. So thoroughly established is the tree, and so generally is distributed, that many have supposed it to be indigenous; but botanists who have investigated the matter regard it as an introduction of remarkable naturalization, and the trees as having descended from those which are known to have been introduced by the early Spanish colonists. This wild orange is bitter, often called in Florida the bitter-sweet, and so exceedingly fruitful that a tree in full bearing is an object of great beauty; the wild orange furnishes stocks on which to bud other varieties, and the result is used to make marmalade. In Florida there are three methods of establishing an orange-grove to clear up a wild grove, removing all trees not needed, and budding on a sweet foot tree; that is, to take up young wild trees and set them in prepared ground, and there bud them; and to raise stock from seed, bud them in nursery rows, and when of sufficient size, set them in the plantation, as is practiced with other fruit. Each method has its own advocates, but it is probable that the last is best, though apparently slower, gives us the best results.—Appleton's American Cyclopaedia (revised edition), article "Orange."

Mr. Beecher is to return to Brooklyn this week, much to the disappointment of the Barons, who keep the hotel where he is staying. They have given him his board and $50 a week to stay and preach at their house. He thinks they are making too much money out of him and demands that they pay him $20 a week. The Barons say this is too much, and Beecher says, "All right gentlemen, I go home this week." "If you do we will sue you for breach of contract," for Mr. Beecher, you agreed to stay until the third Sunday in September," Beecher coolly replies: "Sue away, if you like. I should think after what you have seen of my success in the last week, that you would know better than to undertake a suit against me.—New York Express."

The discovery of a Chicago woman is how to eat a peach at the table gracefully. Cut the peach open in the middle and remove the pit. Hold one of the halves in the left hand, and use a spoon to scoop out the pulp and carry it to the mouth. Thus the fingers are not soiled, and the bother of peeling is avoided. No patent upon this device has been obtained.

Julius Lewis & Co.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Please write them for circulars, terms, &c.

This Engine is endorsed by all the leading machinists in the country. Engines can be seen at our store.

It is Perfectly Free of Danger from Fire

Sparks being drawn down through upright tubes and dropped in water—making it a desirable machine for agricultural purposes, for fire engines, or for any purposes requiring power of its capacity. Its simplicity allows its being run by a person of ordinary ability.

These Engines and Boilers have been thoroughly examined and inspected by the best mechanical engineers and experts, and of whom pronounce it to be the best portable engine ever presented to the public.

Its small consumption of fuel, being less than a quarter of a cord of wood daily for a night horse power, and we call especial attention to the fact that these engines are built and constructed so as to be safe by insurance companies, that they do not increase the risk of insurance upon their introduction into stores, gin houses, and other buildings, making them desirable machines for generating steam, running mill stones, elevators, sawing, &c.; and they cannot fail to come into general use.

No cost in shafts or construction of these machines are in every respect first-class. Steam and water gauges, try-cocks, oil-cups, &c., with governor, all complete and perfectly made as possible.
